

FIST OF TRUTH

WE PUNCH OUT LIES... EVERYWHERE!

SHOW SHEET

THE LOGLINE

When a politician makes a claim a professional fact-checker rated false, the Fist of Truth, an animated superhero, hits it with a cartoon punch, and the receipt prints the fact-check's own numbers.

THE SHOW

Fist of Truth is an animated fact-check comedy show: Shorts, Reels and TikToks, and long-form episodes on YouTube. Real footage of a politician plays. When they make a claim a professional fact-checker rated false, the Fist of Truth, an animated superhero, hits it with a cartoon punch, a receipt prints the fact-check's own numbers, and a VERDICT: FALSE stamp slams down. The show never rates a claim itself: only a claim rated false by one of eight professional fact-checkers gets the Fist of Truth, whoever said it. The one exception is a Throwback, a famous claim from history, where the receipt is the official record. Bob, the omniscient narrator, sets up each claim and lands the punchline. Narration is an AI voice. To this day, nobody knows what Bob looks like.

THE FORMATS

QUICK HITS
One claim, one punch, about 25 seconds. Its series: Paid For By (campaign ads) and Broken Record (a rated claim, said again).

THEN VS. NOW
A politician's own dated words, side by side. You be the judge.

ANSWER THE QUESTION
A direct question, and the whole answer. No answer: STILL WAITING.

INSTANT REPLAY
A retelling, set against the tape of the moment. You decide.

THROWBACK
A famous claim from history, set against the official record.

STOP THE TAPE
The tape, then the sources. You be the judge.

MAIN EVENT
Long-form on YouTube, for the big speeches and Debate Night.

MAIN EVENT: THE WEEK
The week's rated claims in rounds, on YouTube.

STOP THE TAPE: HEARING ROOM
The week's hearings, on YouTube.

STOP THE TAPE: ON AIR
One TV show's day, on YouTube.

THE LONG PLAY
One false claim's whole life, on YouTube.

HOW WE FACT-CHECK

1. A claim gets the Fist of Truth only when one of eight professional fact-checkers rates it False, Pants on Fire or Four Pinocchios, or the equivalent. Mostly False gets a light tap.
2. Claims the fact-checkers disagree on are skipped, and the show covers any party: whoever was rated false, and any public figure on tape in the formats with no verdict.
3. The receipt prints the fact-check's own numbers, word for word, and every receipt links its source.
4. The one exception is a Throwback, a famous claim from history. Its receipt is the official record: the person's own later admission, a court's finding that still stands, an official investigation or the government's own data. Never an op-ed, a book or a news story.
